ABOUT THE WORKSHOP

The utility of Statistics as a subject in decision making process is unequivocally conceded by experts from the fields of academics, business & commerce, industries, agriculture and social sciences. While in the other parts of our country the subject has gained its momentum keeping in pace with the international level, the North-Eastern part of India is still lagging behind in this process.

Most of the research scholars, working in different fields, have understood the indispensability of inclusion of supporting facts (numeric or anumeric) and their proper analysis by using statistical tools as an essential part of their research. On the contrary a handful of scholars who viewed this addition of numerical facts and their statistical analysis in their research work as merely an ornamental one.

Presently research scholars have understood the utility of Statistics in analytical works. The enhanced popularity of the subject can be directly associated with the development and regular upgradation of many easy-to-operate Statistical Softwares. SPSS falls in this particular category of study. This workshop is organized as to add a little drop in the ocean of efforts that have been made by the whole fraternity of Statistics to strengthen the subject with the following aims and objectives:

- (i) To propagate the subject and its application through use of SPSS.
- (ii) To help and encourage college teachers who are already engaged in research activities or planning to start a new one in the near future, using SPSS in analytical work of their research study.
- (iii) To invite individuals from other spheres, e.g., agriculture, industries etc. to use SPSS and hence Statistics in their respective fields and
- (iv) Altogether it is a campaign to encourage practice of Statistics through SPSS so that the benefit goes directly or indirectly to the society.
